Most of RiverStreet Networks customers in the U.S., including ALaska and Hawaii, have access to basic 911 or Enhanced 911 (E911) service. Enhanced 911 (E911) service is available for all U.S. customers who register a valid E911 service address.

With E911 service, when you dial 911, your telephone number and registered address is simultaneously sent to the local emergency center assigned to your location, and emergency operators have access to the information they need to send help and call you back if necessary. If you live in locations where the emergency center is not equipped to receive your telephone number and address, you have basic 911. With basic 911, the local emergency operator answering the call will not have your call back number or your exact location, so your exact location. So you must be prepared to give them this information. Until you give the operator your phone number and location, he/she may not be able to call you back or dispatch help if your call is not completed or is not forwarded, is dropped or disconnected, or if you are unable to speak.

As additional local emergency centers become capable of receiving our customers' telephone number and address information, customers will need to register a valid E911 service address to upgrade the service to E911. RiverStreet Networks will not inform you that new local emergency centers have been added. If your address is not covered by E911 service, RiverStreet Networks advises you to attempt to register your address periodically to determine if a new local emergency center has been added to your area.

Certain customers do not have access to either basic 911 or E911 because there are no local emergency centers in their area or they did not register for an E911 service address. If you do not have access to basic 911 or E911, your 911 call will be sent to the national emergency call center. A trained agent at the emergency call center will ask for the name, telephone number and location of the customer calling 911, and then contact the local emergency center for such customer in order to send help.

Emergency personnel do not receive your phone number or physical location when your 911 call is routed to a national emergency call center. Therefore, you must be prepared to give the operator your phone number and location and any other information that the operator might request. You authorize the national emergency call center to disclose your name and address to the third party or parties involved with providing emergency services to you. Including , without limitation, call routers, call centers and local emergency centers.

Notify All Users

Customers are responsible for informing any household residents, guests and other third persons who may be present at the physical location where you utilize the 911 service of the important differences in and limitations of 911 service as compared with traditional 911 landline or cell phone service.

Registration of Physical Location Required

For each primary phone number that you use for the Service, you must register with RiverStreet Networks the physical location where you will be using the Service with that phone number. When you move the Device to another location, you must register you new location. If you do not register your new location, any 911 calls you make using the 911 service may be sent to an emergency center near your old address. You must register your initial location of use when you subscribe to the Service.

Thereafter, you may register a new location by following the instructions from the “911” registration link in your RiverStreet Networks Account Portal. For purposes of the 911 service, you may only register one location at a time for each primary phone line you use with the Service.
